

To Kill A Mockingbird Online Forum Rubric

	Fantastic	Well Done	Good effort	Needs Improvement
Focus	Student posts are always on topic, student has obviously read before posting, therefore information is not repetitive. Posts are in an appropriate thread.	Student posts are frequently on topic, student has read before posting, therefore information is not repetitive. Posts are usually in an appropriate thread.	Student posts are sometimes on topic, student has usually read before posting, therefore most information is not repetitive. Posts are sometimes in an appropriate thread.	Student posts are rarely on topic, student has not read before posting, therefore most information is repetitive and subject for deletion. Posts may or may not be in an appropriate thread.
Content	Student posts original thoughts.	Student posts mostly original thoughts therefore they rarely repeat or have similar posts to others.	Student posts somewhat original thoughts that sometimes repeat similar posts on similar topics.	Student posts unoriginal thoughts that frequently repeat similar posts on similar topics.
Depth	Posts demonstrate higher level thinking. Student asks thought provoking questions, provides insight, or has well thought-out responses. Student supports their thinking by providing evidence.	Posts demonstrate higher level thinking. Student asks questions, provides insight, or has opinionated responses. Student sometimes provides evidence to support.	Posts may demonstrate higher level thinking. Student sometimes asks thought provoking questions, provides insight, or has well thought-out responses. Student seldom provides evidence to support.	Posts may demonstrate some thought or planning. Student seldom asks questions. Responses may not be well thought out. Student rarely provides evidence to support.
Frequency	Student posts 5 or more posts per week (i.e. 5 weeks = 25 posts)	Student posts 4 posts per week (i.e. 5 weeks = 20 posts)	Students post 3 posts per week (i.e. 5 weeks = 15 posts)	Student fewer than 3 times per week

 Does not include deleted posts. Posts may be deleted for inappropriateness, insensitivity, repetition, or lack of relevancy.